

Item Search

This section explains how to search for items, such as by title, author or subject, and how to restrict a search to a chosen type of material or location.

Printable Quick Guide: Item Search

Search Menu

To search for an item press [F2]. A pop-up window will appear:

A screenshot of a 'Search' pop-up window. The window has a title bar with a close button (X). Inside, there's a section labeled 'Indexes:' with a list of search options: 'Title Browse' (highlighted in blue), 'Title Keyword', 'Author Browse', 'Subject Browse', 'Subject Keyword', 'General Keyword', and 'Barcode'. A green line connects 'Title Browse' to a green box labeled 'selected search type'. Below the list is a section labeled 'Selected index contains:' with the text 'Alphabetical list of titles' in blue. A green line connects this text to a green box labeled 'explanation'. At the bottom, there's a 'Search for:' label followed by a text input field. Below the input field are several buttons: 'OK', 'Cancel', 'Prev. Search', 'Example', 'Restrict', and 'Entry Aid'. In the top right corner of the window, there is a button labeled 'Command mode >>'.

explanation

The list of indexes allows you to choose different types of search. Title Browse is selected by default. Horizon will remember the last search index used.

Capital letters are not needed when searching, and articles such as ‘a’, ‘an’ and ‘the’ can be left off the front of a search.

For example a title browse for “wonder” will also find titles called “The Wonder”, and “fistful of dollars” will find the title “A Fistful of Dollars”.

Similar to borrower search, item search is not forgiving of spelling mistakes.

If you subject browse for “knirring” instead of “knitting” the results will be unhelpful.

However, if the spelling is correct then you don’t need to type in a full search phrase to get good results.

For example a title browse for “harry potter and the ph” will find entries for “Harry Potter and the Philosopher’s Stone”.

Types of Search

Browse Search

The main type of search that we use at the circulation desk is a browse search, either by title, author or subject. We’ll use examples of those 3 types to illustrate how search works, and also mention the other types of search available.

Title Browse

This provides a list of titles in alphabetical order.

Example: a simple search: Going Postal by Terry Pratchett

Searching for “going postal” returns these results:

Summary	Arch-swindler Moist Van Lipwig never believed his confidence crimes were hanging offenses - until he found himself with a noose tightly around his neck, dropping through a trapdoor, and falling into... a government job? By all rights, Moist should have met his maker. Instead, it's Lord Vetinari, supreme ruler of Ankh-Morpork, who promptly offers him a job as Postmaster. Since his only other option is a nonliving one, Moist accepts the position - and the hulking goblin watchdog who comes along with it, just in case Moist was considering absconding his responsibilities prematurely. Clotting the moribund Postal Service up and running again, however, may be a near-impossible task, what with literally mountains of decades-old undelivered mail clogging every nook and cranny of the broken-down post office building; and with only a few creaky old postmen and one rather unstable, pin-obessed youth available to deliver it. Worse still, Moist could swear the mail is talking to him. Worst of all, it means taking on the gargantuan, money-hungry Grand Trunk clocks communication monopoly and its bloodthirsty practical head, Mr. Reacher Grib. But it says on the building weather Rain Her Snow Her Storm of Mt. Inspiring words (admittedly, some of the bronze letters have been stolen), and for once in his wretched life Moist is going to fight. And if the bold and impossible are what's called for, he'll do it - in order to move the mail, continue breathing, get the girl, and specially deliver that invaluable commodity that every human being (not to mention troll, dwarf, and, yes, even gnom) requires: hope.

Most of the time we reach this window we simply want to click on Show Copies to see which locations have this item. However, sometimes the links and information can be useful.

The blue underlined links for Author, Series and Subjects can be double-clicked, and will take us to more titles by the same author, in the same series, or on the same subject.

The Publication Info and Summary can provide clarification if a borrower is looking for a book but isn't too sure about its title, or is looking for a specific edition.

Clicking on Show Copies brings up another window that shows where copies are held:

If there is a copy at your location then it will appear at the top of the list. If there isn't a copy at your location it can be requested from another location.

If a copy is checked out then you can see who has it by clicking on the Detail Status button. This provides information about the current borrower and prior circulation.

Searching for an item causes a few windows to open. When you are finished with a search the easiest way to close each one is to press the [Escape] key.

Example: when multiple editions exist: Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone by J K Rowling

Your Search

Again, the arrow points to the closest match but we can see that there are 5 entries for this title: 2 books, 2 video recordings and an online electronic version.

The online version cannot be checked out using Horizon, but if no physical copies are currently available it could be useful to let borrowers know that it exists. Borrowers can check it out using the eLibrary system.

If the borrower is looking for a video recording then check the format carefully to see if it's the tape, DVD, or Blu-Ray version. Sometimes this is obvious from the Format column, other times you need to click on Show Detail and view the Bibliographical Detail window to verify.

If multiple entries exist for a book they can sometimes be differentiated by the publication date. If it's important to the borrower then select the edition that they prefer. In this example there are 2 entries for the book, and both have a 1997 publication date. So to find all copies you should highlight both entries by selecting them...

You can move between the details of each selected entry by clicking on the Prev. Title and Next buttons at the bottom.

To see where the copies for an entry are located click on Show Copies. In the Copies window click on the Prev. Title and Next buttons to see where copies of each version are held.

Example: when different titles have the same name: Wonder

Searching for 'wonder' returns these results:

You can see that there are several different titles named “Wonder” and that they are not listed alphabetically by author.

Also, scrolling down a little reveals that there are even more results for “Wonder” after the results for Emma Donoghue’s “The Wonder”:

Select one or more entries to see more detail.
Title/Pub date	Format	Author

So you may need to scroll up or down the list to find a title with a common name by a particular author, or to find all versions of a particular title.

☐ Descending sort

There are 3 ways to sort: by title, author or publication date.

Often a borrower is looking for the latest or oldest book by an author. So, to sort by publication date:

- select Pub date and it will move to the top
- select Descending sort to make the newest titles appear at the top of the list

- click on OK

To find where copies of a particular title are located, click on Show Detail and then Show Copies.

Subject Browse

This provides a list of subjects in alphabetical order. Selecting a subject shows all titles that belong to it.

The name of the subject must begin with the word or words you type, so sometimes it is worth performing a Subject Keyword search too, because that search will return all subjects that contain the keyword.

For example, a subject browse for “knitting” will return all subjects that begin with the word “knitting”, such as “Knitting Patterns” and “Knitting: Newfoundland and Labrador”, but it won’t include subjects such as “Peg Knitting” or “Spool Knitting”. However a subject keyword search for “knitting” will include those subjects.

Here are the results of the subject browse:

Select one or more entries to see titles.

Subject	Titles
Knitting -- Juvenile literature.	14
Knitting, Machine	4
See: Machine knitting
⇒ Knitting machines	0
See also: Machine knitting	4
Knitting -- Maine -- Patterns.	2
Knitting -- Miscellanea	7

Your Search

In general the quality of search results depends on the quality of the input. So if a borrower wants titles about “Spool Knitting” then a subject browse for “spool knitting” is more likely to return relevant results than a browse for just “knitting”.

Series Browse

This provides a list of series in alphabetical order.

You need to know the first word or words of the series name.

If you are not sure of the precise name of a series then use a Series Keyword search instead. If that doesn't help then search for a title that you know is in the series and then double-click on the series link in the Bibliographical Detail window.

Other Browse Searches

You can also browse for audiobooks, dvds, videos, journals, and music.

Keyword Search

This type searches for words located anywhere within a title, subject or series.

For example a Title Keyword search for “pigs” will find all titles that have the word “pigs” in them:

A real mixed bag of results!

So there are benefits and drawbacks to using keyword searches.

If we have a title containing the keyword, it will be in the results list - somewhere. However the results list is often lengthy and cannot be sorted by material type or collection. That makes it hard to trawl through to find titles that the borrower may want to know more about.

It is usually better to adjust the search. If the borrower wants books about pigs, then use a Subject Keyword search instead. If the borrower wants juvenile books that have the word "pigs" in the title, then restrict the search to juvenile materials only. See the section Restricting a Search.

What most types of keyword search do is obvious by their names (such as Title Keyword), but there are a couple of types of search that are worth a little more explanation.

General Keyword Search

This will search by Author, Title, Subject, Series and Contents – all at once.

This is a very powerful yet very blunt instrument. For common words it will often return too many diverse results, but it is worth using if you are having trouble finding something on a subject.

Authors & Performers Keyword Search

This will find items by an author or with a listed performer.

For example, it can find all the books, music, and videos that Madonna has either written or performed in.

Enhanced Searching by Keyword

Using Truncated Keywords

Keywords can be truncated using an * asterisk.

For example, a Title Keyword search for “econ*” will find all titles that contain a word beginning with “Econ”, such as “Economics”, “Economy” and “Economical”.

Using Multiple Keywords

A keyword search can be narrowed by using two or more words, each separated by a space. It will find titles that contain all the keywords.

The words AND and OR can also be used to improve your search.

Here are some examples of how multiple keywords can be used:

Using...	...and searching for...	...will find
title keyword	harry potter	items with both “harry” and “potter” in the title
subject keyword	paint* canada	books about painting or painters in Canada
	animal* AND (sound OR communication)	books about animals sounds
	(atomic OR nuclear) AND (energy OR power)	books about nuclear power
general keyword	newfoundland AND (ghost OR spirit OR supernatural)	ghost stories from Newfoundland

Number Search

There are several ways to search by number, such as by Barcode, ISBN, or Dewey Call Number.

Searching by barcode can be a quick way to reach useful information.

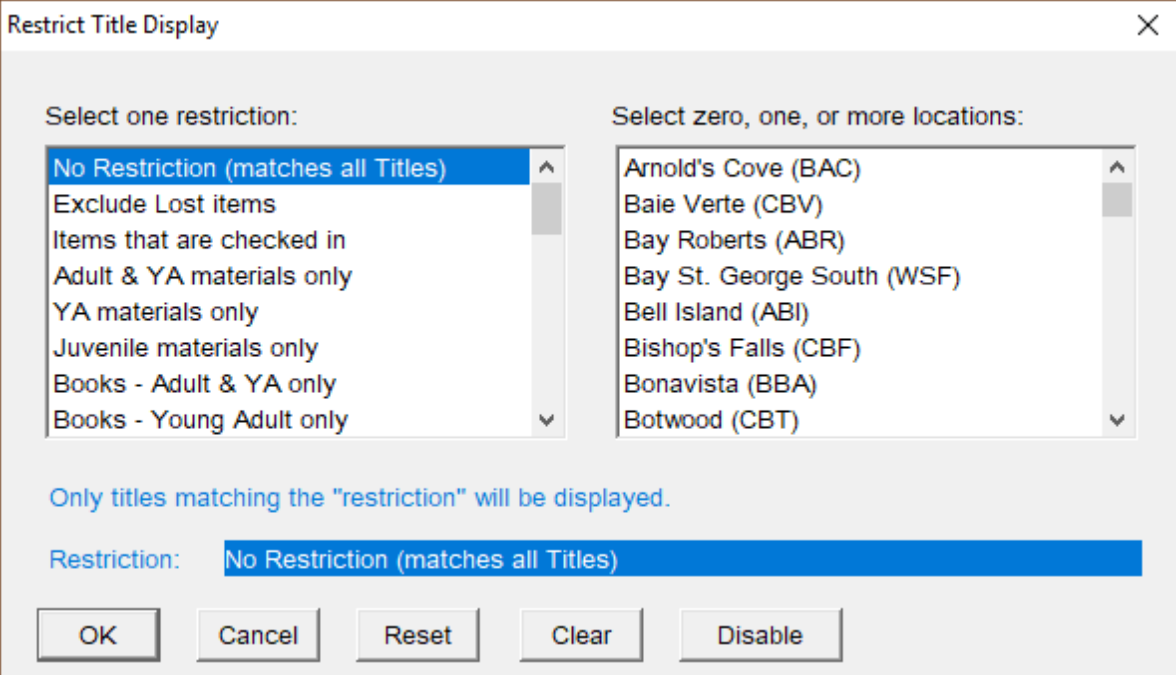

For example if you have an item in your hand, scanning it in will bring up its Bibliographical Detail window. From there you can look up more titles by the same author, titles in the same series, and other titles on the same subject.

Restricting a search

Searches can be restricted by types of material and location.

- press [F2] to begin a search
  - the Search Window will open
- click on Restrict
  - the Restrict Title Display pop-up will open:

The 'Restrict Title Display' dialog box is shown. It has a title bar with a close button (X). Inside, there are two main sections: 'Select one restriction:' on the left and 'Select zero, one, or more locations:' on the right. The left section contains a list box with the following items: 'No Restriction (matches all Titles)' (selected), 'Exclude Lost items', 'Items that are checked in', 'Adult & YA materials only', 'YA materials only', 'Juvenile materials only', 'Books - Adult & YA only', and 'Books - Young Adult only'. The right section contains a list box with the following items: 'Arnold's Cove (BAC)', 'Baie Verte (CBV)', 'Bay Roberts (ABR)', 'Bay St. George South (WSF)', 'Bell Island (ABI)', 'Bishop's Falls (CBF)', 'Bonavista (BBA)', and 'Botwood (CBT)'. Below these sections, a blue text line reads: 'Only titles matching the "restriction" will be displayed.' Below that, a label 'Restriction:' is followed by a blue bar containing the text 'No Restriction (matches all Titles)'. At the bottom, there are five buttons: 'OK', 'Cancel', 'Reset', 'Clear', and 'Disable'.

- In the left pane you can select one type of restriction, such as Large Print Only.
- In the right pane you can select zero, one or more locations.

Click on OK to return to the search window. A blue bar will remind you that searches are now restricted:

The search window is shown. At the top, there is a label 'Titles Restricted to:' followed by a blue bar containing the text 'Large Print only'. Below this, there is a label 'Search for:' followed by a text input field. At the bottom, there are five buttons: 'OK', 'Cancel', 'Prev. Search', 'Example', and 'Restrict'.

From here you can continue with your search.

The restriction will remain in place for future searches until you clear it.

To clear a restriction:

- press [F2] to open the Search Window
- click on Restrict
  - the Restrict Title Display pop-up will open
- click on Clear

If you want to temporarily disable a restriction then click on Disable instead of Clear. Click on Enable to bring it back.

Limiting a search

After you have performed a search you can refine it to make the results more relevant.

For example, to find books about dinosaurs published since 2010:

- perform a Subject Browse search for “dinosaurs”
- select the entry “Dinosaurs”
- click on Show Titles to bring up the full list of titles
- click on Limit

The Search Limit box will appear:
